

PAVILION

SHELTER FROM THE STORM

Introducing the Shackadelic Pavilion, an update on the classic garden feature; a shady escape that will flourish and evolve beautifully over time. The structure itself is a precision piece, with all the company's hallmark design and sustainability sensibilities. Built using oak milled in a local timber yard. The roof is made from easy to install reed panels for a twist on the thatched-look. Choose between woven or lattice panels to give the pavilion a contemporary feel. If desirable we can also render the panels with a hemp/sand/lime mix and a choice of pigmented colour wash. Take shelter from the storms of modern life.

The Pavilion

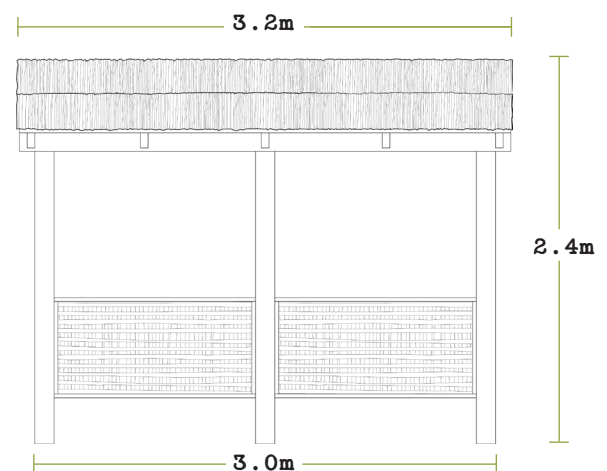

The Shackadelic Pavilion measures 3m by 3m (with a roof that gently overhangs the frame, bringing the total footprint to 3.2m by 3.8m). Built from UK grown and produced timber, decorative oak panelling and topped with a traditional thatch roof. Instantly turns your garden into another room to eat, play live.
